A general introduction to the great books and to a liberal education, (The Great ideas program)

Mortimer Jerome Adler

What is a liberal education? It is easy to say what it is not. It is not specialized education, not vocational, avocational, professional or preprofessional. It is not an education that teaches a man how to do any specific thing. I am afraid we shall have to admit that the educational process in America is either a rather pleasant way of passing the time until we are ready to go to work, or a way of getting ready for some occupation, or a combination of the two. What is missing is education to be human beings, education to make the most of our human powers, education for our responsibilities as members of a democratic society, education for freedom. It is the purpose of this Reading Plan to provide a way into the Great Books. Since this is a general introduction, no attempt has been made to orient this Reading Plan around one subject or one theme. We have tried to provide fifteen selections that are at once interesting, diverse, easy enough to be rewarding on a first reading, and difficult enough to offer a challenge to all readers - experts as well as beginners.
