Not illustrated.1860 Excerpt: ... stick between them. By this method you may wring it as dry as possible; the harder, without injuring it, the better. Having given it this first liquor, you may put in some old cottons or woolens, that the liquor may not be thrown away, and then give your counterpane a second liquor, as before. Wring it out again, and rinse in clean cold water; then pour a sufficient quantity of boiling water into your tub, with a small quantity of the solution of soap, so that you will reduce it to a very thin lather. Put three teaspoonfuls of liquid blue into the tub whence your goods were taken, and the acid of the liquid blue, and the alkali of the pearlash, and the soap lye, will cause a slight fermentation or effervescence; stir this thin, blue liquor with a stick, and put in your counterpane; beat it out with the doll about five minutes, which will color the counterpane of a fine azure blue, of the lightest shade; but as it dries in the wind, the blue mostly goes off, and leaves a brilliant white. On Colors.--The five chief colors are blue, red, yellow, black, and brown; each of these, separately, will afford an infinite number of colors, or rather shades, and by the combination of two or more of them, all the colors in dyeing are formed. On the Mixture of the Five Chief Colors, taken by Three and Three, to produce the various Compound Colors.--From blue, red, and yellow, the red olives and greenish grays are made; from blue, red, and brown, olives are made from the lightest to the darkest shades, and by giving a greater shade of red, the slated and lavender grays are made. From blue, red, and black, grays of all shades are made, such as sage, pigeon, slate, and lead grays. The king's or prince's color is duller than usual. This mixture produces a variety of hues or ...
